CHOOSE & PLAY

Before we watched them play, we watched them make decisions. We saw these teams come together, change, grow and then win. We have seen them sweat, fight and even lose.

What brings us together?

Something that is greater than just observing.
Something we share every day.

We are leaders because we have fought.

We are partners because we share style.

We are strong because we have morale.

We are competitive because we want to grow.

We watched them tear through every piece of clothing because we are right between the body and the clothes, to share an insight of the team. To share a choice.
